GoGeomatics Canada
PO BOX #421 – 207 Bank Street
Ottawa, Ontario K2P 2N2, Canada

Dear Colleagues,

I invite you to participate in Geolgnite 2026, Canada's national geospatial leadership conference, May 11–13, 2026 in Ottawa.

Geolgnite exists to bring government and industry together. Governments at all levels depend on industry for the services, technology, and delivery capacity required to build and operate Canada's geospatial and digital foundations. That relationship matters more than ever, with a stronger focus on buying Canadian and building trusted supply chains, while also forming new partnerships with leading organizations from around the world.

Geolgnite 2026 is structured across three days with clear progression. Monday is a free, open National Geospatial Forum focused on alignment across shared priorities such as sovereignty, workforce development, procurement, standards, and interoperability. Tuesday is a strategic plenary day built around leadership discussion on the forces reshaping our sector. Wednesday shifts into focused, parallel program tracks.

With over 250 attendees and 25–30 exhibitors expected, the event brings together leaders from government, industry, and academia. Hosted by GoGeomatics Canada, and supported by key federal partners, Geolgnite is your opportunity to showcase innovation, build partnerships, and contribute to Canada's northern strategy.

Program highlights will include sessions on:

- GEOINT, the Arctic, and sovereignty
- Space and Earth observation for national resilience and sovereignty
- Digital delivery for infrastructure, the built environment, and sovereign digital infrastructure and data autonomy

Artificial intelligence runs through the program as a cross-cutting enabling capability across all tracks.

The Sponsorship & Exhibitor Package provides direct access to decision-makers, sector-wide visibility, and the chance to support innovation in Canada's North.

We look forward to welcoming you to Geolgnite 2026.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Murphy

CEO and President
GoGeomatics Canada

About Geolgnite 2026

Geolgnite 2026 is Canada's national geospatial leadership conference, taking place in Ottawa from May 11–13, 2026. This national event brings together leaders, innovators, and decision-makers from across government, industry, and the geospatial sector to examine the technologies, priorities, and structural shifts shaping the future of geomatics in Canada.

Each year, Geolgnite highlights Canada's leadership in geospatial capability and its role in addressing national and global challenges, including infrastructure delivery, climate resilience, Arctic sovereignty, geospatial intelligence (GEOINT), and evidence-based decision-making. The conference is designed to support informed discussion at the intersection of policy, operations, intelligence, and technology.

Building on the momentum of Geolgnite 2025, which fostered candid dialogue and renewed alignment across the community, Geolgnite 2026 continues that focus on collaboration and shared purpose. As Jonathan Murphy, CEO of GoGeomatics, noted following last year's event:

“You brought your ideas, your energy, your support — and most importantly, your sense of community.”

The 2026 program will spotlight:

- Strategic leadership from government, academia, defence, and industry
- GEOINT, Earth observation, and spatial intelligence in support of national security and public services
- The convergence of IT, data, and geospatial systems
- Innovation, emerging business models, and new partnerships

Geolgnite is more than a conference. It is a platform where government and industry come together to align on priorities, strengthen Canada's GEOINT and geospatial capabilities, and build trusted partnerships across Canada and with allies around the world. With a dedicated focus on Arctic, sovereignty, and national resilience, Geolgnite 2026 aims to support meaningful progress and long-term impact.

The National Geospatial Forum - May 11, 2026

Geolgnite 2026 opens with a free, open pre-conference day dedicated to dialogue, coordination, and community alignment across Canada's geospatial ecosystem.

The National Geospatial Forum brings together participants from across government, industry, academia, and the broader community to discuss shared priorities such as sovereignty, workforce development, procurement, standards, and interoperability. The intent is to surface perspectives, identify challenges, and help shape the conversations that will carry through the main conference.

As part of the pre-conference program, Geolgnite will host a Quebec Geospatial Forum, providing space for regional priorities and perspectives, alongside a joint Canadian Geospatial & Geomatics Advisory Forum and OGC Canada Forum. This coordinated forum brings multiple communities together under a single platform, reflecting Geolgnite's commitment to connecting community insight with standards-based and interoperability-focused discussion.
